The Wings of the Morning

BY LOUIS TRACY

This is a charming love romance full of exciting adventures admirably related. We have secured the serial rights for our columns and will begin its publication in an early issue.

From the moment that the man and the girl, who are the survivors of the good ship Sirdar, are described on the beach of their island until the last page, Mr. Tracy keeps you interested. The people in this story are real and no puppets. Altogether the novel is an achievement.—New York Evening Sun.

"The Wings of the Morning" is one of those books that you just HAVE to read to see how it all comes out.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, has been in the Senate since 1891, and says that only once has he been able to get a private claim through Congress. This claim was pending for 30 years before it was passed, and the claimant died on the day it finally got through, and had to be buried by charity.

E. V. Damm of Chicago has been allowed to change his name by the courts of that city. His case was presented by a lawyer named Booy, who talked at great length about the hardships of those who had strange names. Yet through the whole case he could not understand why everyone smiled everytime his name was mentioned.

The Sanford Tribune, which has published columns after columns of entertainment notices for churches and other organizations and has never received for the same a single cent, and in some cases not even thanks, thinks there is a limit to this kind of generosity. It therefore makes this announcement: "We will publish reading notices for churches and other organizations as we have previously, absolutely free of charge except where such organizations use job printing which they have obtained elsewhere, and in such cases any announcements made for them will be charged at regular advertising rates. This is not prompted by any selfish motive, but by a spirit of honest reciprocity which is only just."

During the present Winter, "hang" was the be-all and end-all in cutting clothes, whereas for Spring, "fit" rather than "hang" predominates to be the uppermost consideration. It is not to be understood that the mode leans in any sense toward tight dress; it doesn't. But every manifestation of fashion is followed by a counter manifestation, a backward swing.
In collars I have seen nothing fresh. The fold collar, while not new, is distinctive and has, too, the endorsement of a very smart set of designers. Its form is the V-shaped cut in front, which differentiates this form from the generally. The stitching on Spring collars is followed by the "button-down" style, which has never been approved, save for the field, where comfort is of supreme importance. The fold collar is again the morning collar par excellence, and the only one which is reserved for quasi formal occasions. On account of the reviving vogue of the fold collar, morning four-in-hands are cut narrower, 2 inches, while four-in-hands for afternoon wear with the wing collar are cut 2½ inches wide. The high cut of waistcoats for Spring renders it necessary that cravat knots be smaller than during the Winter, when the waistcoat is relaxed. Aside from all this, however, the enormous knots, worn with flaring wing collars by young men, were never a good form, but merely exemplified that proneness of the ignorant to overdo a thing which often stifles a mode at its birth. Fashion, in its truest sense, follows the golden mean, never goes to extremes, and is guided by what we see on all sides do not express fashion, but merely reveal the wearer's misconception of fashion.

Belts for Spring and Summer will be ¾ and 1 inch wide and be made as plainly as possible. Tan pliskin and black calf are old favorites, while seal, morocco and chamois are also used to some extent in fine belts. The ornamentation lies only in the buckles, square and oval, which are of full-finished gold plate, polished gold plate, and also oxidized and gunmetal to accompany black belts. Silk gloves for Summer wear come in white, grey and mode shades. The idea of wearing gloves during hot weather may be strange to you, but it is founded upon sense and fitness. A gentleman dislikes to go gloveless at any time, and it is clearly out of the question to wear leather gloves on grilling days. Silk gloves, however, are cool, clean, and easy to slip on and off because of their flexibility. I do not expect to see silk gloves generally worn next Summer or, indeed, any Summer, but as a development of the mode the creation of a purely hat weather glove is interesting. Colored handkerchiefs will still be smart for Spring, and the linen article will be a shade smarter than the silk and linen mixture. Hello, blue, tan, sky, black and white, and nankin are dainty, while grounds bearing plaids.

MEN'S SPRING FASHIONS.

Points That Our Readers of Correct Taste Should Consider.

The Courier-Gazette is indebted to that eminent New York authority, The Haberdasher, for advance sheets setting forth the coming styles in men's wear. As every gentleman reader of our paper likes to know the correct thing, even if he doesn't always follow it, he will be interested in the following paragraphs.
January and February are the months of large assemblies and small dinner parties with an occasional flight South to break the monotony and fill an Aiken void. If I may be pardoned a somewhat obvious pun, Winter is ebbing, but it will be many weeks yet before we can exchange our greatcoats and flannels for lighter wear. The seasons no longer come and go like the almanac—they merge almost imperceptibly. After a period of staidness in dress akin to sobriety, Spring, with its sprightly patterns and shades, will be welcome, indeed. Winter is not hospitable to clothes changes, and it is to Spring that we must always look for freshness, variety and plenitude of color. The tone of dress has been to crescendo. It was my privilege during the month to see the Spring clothes made by a tailor of high repute for a well-known club and society man. The year known was "the thing," but the popularizing of the color has rendered it unacceptable to men who seek distinctiveness in dress. Low russet boots will be worn as much as hitherto in the country, though not in town. Spring boots are cut with moderately pointed toes, rather high heels and less outswaying to the sole. For outing use, serge, tweed and homespun suits are cut full and loose will be countenanced. Trousers are to be turned up at the bottom when made of soft Summer stuffs which might trail at the heel, but not when made of the heavier cloth. Outing and tennis sets are fashioned of white buckskin or silk webbing, and sometimes silk handkerchiefs are used as the necktie. The evening jacket will be worn as heretofore at Summer home and semi-formal gatherings in the country. It is hard to preserve decorum in its entirety during blustering and blustering. There is a general proneness among well-dressed men to disregard the jacket altogether this Winter, but rules relax now and then and the most unbending anti-jacketer finds his prejudices yielding with his collar. As long as we make the jacket a purely Summer garment, and that is the position toward which it is drifting, no violence is done to custom and tradition in so far as the swallowtail is concerned. The position of that garment is quite unassailable.

Fancy waistcoats will be as proper as before, and the "cut" away from the breast, which has been done to death, and toward more Spring-like shades, such as corn and biscuit. They are cut a bit higher to accord with the mode of the necktie. The general feeling of fashion is to brightness and color there are no signs that Spring is to upset in any sense the accepted standards. These have been formed slowly and being the result of natural development, must change gradually. I own that there was a time when it was the single aim to make the mode of a season as different as possible from the season some before. But, having found fitness and good taste, we are not eager to experiment.

THE MAIN OBSTACLE.

Salt Codfish the Rock Upon Which Newfoundland Treaty May Split.

Some of the statements regarding the status of the Hay-Bond Newfoundland reciprocity treaty have not been quite accurate, writes A. Maurice Low, Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe.
The following are the facts: When the treaty was first negotiated and sent to the Senate for ratification it was opposed by Senators Lodge and Hale because it admitted salt codfish free of duty.
The admission of salt fish free of duty is the one thing above all others in which the people of Newfoundland are interested, but both Mr. Lodge and Mr. Hale claimed if salt fish were placed on the free list a great injury would be done to the New England fishermen.
It was pointed out to these two senators that the treaty gave advantages to New England in particular, and the country in general, that more than counterbalanced any injury that might be caused to a single interest, and that in the making of any reciprocity treaty it was necessary to give and take, so as to strike an equitable balance; but this argument was of no avail. There was no opposition to the treaty from other senators, but the power of a single senator is so great that Senators Lodge and Hale were in this instance equal to the other 88 senators combined.
As both Secretary Hay and Sir Robert Bond, the premier of Newfoundland, were anxious to secure the ratification of the treaty last summer after the adjournment of the Senate, with the object of having the treaty still unacted upon by the Senate committee on foreign relations and for all practical purposes dead, they resumed negotiations to endeavor to see if the treaty could not be amended so as to overcome the New England objections and without Newfoundland having to surrender everything.
Sir Robert Bond agreed to reduce the tariff on certain manufactured articles, but insisted that the free entry of salt fish must be granted. The treaty did not provide for the admission free of duty of fresh and frozen fish, because of the objections raised by New England fishermen, and the Newfoundland fish of any description would be brought in competition with American fish, but in view of the concessions made by Sir Robert affecting manufactured goods they have withdrawn their opposition to fresh and frozen fish going on the free list, but Mr. Lodge still insists that salt fish must be retained on the dutiable list.

This is the crux of the whole question. Fresh and frozen fish are not important items of commerce to Newfoundland, but salt fish is, and unless the Newfoundland fishermen are given the privilege of free entry for salt fish to the American market Newfoundland can see little benefit to be retained to follow the ratification of the treaty.
It is understood that Mr. Lodge has caused the information to be conveyed to Sir Robert Bond that his treaty will slowly and being the result of natural development, must change gradually. I own that there was a time when it was the single aim to make the mode of a season as different as possible from the season some before. But, having found fitness and good taste, we are not eager to experiment.

A BELATED EASTER.
Spring Bonnets Will Be Ready When It Arrives This Year.
Easter Sunday will come unusually late this year, not arriving until April 23, and its late arrival will be a source of much joy to women, both young and old, as well as to such men as make of the occasion an occasion for appearing out in their smartest clothes.
It happens but few times in a lifetime that Easter Sunday falls on a date late enough in the year to allow Maine people to wear real spring hats and garments on that day, but this year will be an exception, for Easter Sunday will be unusually late in arriving.
The manner of fixing the date of Easter Sunday is something known to but a small proportion of the people of the Christian world, notwithstanding the general celebration of Easter. The average person cannot fix the date without looking the matter up, and to the question, "How is the date of Easter fixed?" the usual reply is that the person does not know.
The moon's phases fix the date of the festival. By the Ecclesiastical calendar, Easter is the Sunday following the first full moon after the vernal equinox and this year the moon is at its full but 1 hour and 34 minutes before the vernal equinox. The vernal equinox occurs this year on March 21 at 2:10 a. m., o'clock, and the full moon on the same morning at 12:16 o'clock, making Easter Sunday come nearly a month later. If the moon full two hours later Easter Sunday would have come on March 28 instead of April 23.
In looking over the dates on which Easter Sunday has fallen in past years it will be seen that in but two instances has it fallen later in April and but once on the same date as this year during the past century. In 1886 Easter Sunday fell on April 25, the latest of which there is any record, and according to the calendar it will not be equalled during the present century.
In 1859 the date was April 24 and in 1848, April 23. It has fallen a few times only on April 22 during the past century, and, on the average, comes near the middle of the month. The earliest date on which Easter Sunday has arrived is March 22 in 1818. A repetition of this will not occur up to the year 2000, or during the lives of the people now living.

It is said that Rider Haggard's first three books netted the author £10. Haggard, but not discouraged, he tried again. "King Solomon's Mines" was the result. A case where the luck came with even numbers.

Henry Fairfield Osborn stands among the leading paleontologists of the day. He is an alumnus of Princeton and holds degrees from Princeton and Cambridge, the doctorate from Cambridge being awarded in August last. His latest published contribution to the history of science have appeared in the Century under the head of "Fossil Wonders of the West." Dr. Osborn is now a Professor of Zoology at Columbia University and trustee and vice-president of the American Museum of Natural History, New York.
The critical faculty seems to be in herent in the family of Rudyard Kipling, if one may judge from the latest story about him, just wafted across the Atlantic. One day when he was revising the proofs of "Traffic and Discoveries," last summer, his little daughter Elsie was seated in a chair in the same room with him. Suddenly Mr. Kipling began to sing "On the Road to Mandalay." His daughter approached him and asked him to sing. Suddenly she broke out: "Father, didn't you write that song?" "Yes," "Well, it seems to me you would know the tune better," was the caustic comment.

Pastor Wagner and President Roosevelt having made the simple life fashionable, Malcolm I. McLeod, a Canadian, who has translated himself to California, is about to show us how we can acquire it in a book soon to be published by Revell. The title, "The Culture of Simplicity," raises an interesting question. Can simplicity be "cultivated"? Mr. McLeod's thesis seems to involve a contradiction in terms. However, as the author announces that he is not a follower of Mr. Wagner, but "approaches his subject from a different viewpoint," perhaps he will also show us a different kind of simplicity—one that can be cultivated.
Sir Gilbert Parker, author of "A Ladder of Swords," tells the following story about the growth of his earlier novel, "The Right of Way." He had planned the story for about 17,000 words and had concentrated all his effort on keeping it short. On a steamer bound for America he met a member of the Harper firm, and described the story to him. They sat on deck most of one night talking over the character of Charles Steele, as the author had studied the original. The story, as yet unnamed, was accepted on the spot, and the author hurried into the Canadian wilderness to write it. He expected to do it in a month, but as he worked the scheme changed, and before that time was past there were more than 17,000 words, and the end was nowhere in sight. He wrote to his publishers and explained that the story had taken the bit in its mouth and was running away. The reply came: "Let it run." The result was a novel of more than 100,000 words in length.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM
The Hand of Lincoln.
Look on the east, and know the hand
That bore a nation in its hold;
From this mute witness understand
What Lincoln was,—how large of mould.
The man who sped the woodman's team,
And deepest sunk the ploughman's share,
And pushed the laden raft astrain,
Of fate before him unaware.
This was the hand that knew to swing
The axe since this would Freedom train
Her son and made the forest ring,
And drove the wedge, and tolled again.
Firm hand, that lofter office took,
A conscience leader's will obeyed,
And when men sought his word and law,
With steadfast might the gathering sway'd.
No courtier's, toying with a sword,
Nor minstrel's, laid across a lute,
A chief's, uplifted to the Lord
When all the kings of earth were mute!
The hand of Anak, sinew'd strong,
The fingers that on greatness clutch;
Yet, lo! the marks their lines along
Of one who strove and suffered much.
For hard in knotted cord and vein
I trace the varying chart of years,
I know the troubled heart, the strain,
The weight of Atlas—and the tears.
Again I see the patient brow
That pain ere while was wont to press;
And now 'tis furrow'd deep, and now
Made smooth with hope and tenderress.
For something of a formless grace
This moulded outline plays about;
A pitying fane, beyond our trace,
Breathes like a spirit, in and out.—
The love that cast an aureole
Round one who, longer to endure,
Called north to save his countless dole,
Yet kept his nobler purpose sure.
Lo! as I gaze, the statured man,
Built up from you large hand, appears
A type that Nature will to plan
But once in all a people's years.
What better than this voiceless cast
To tell of such a life as his,
Since through its living semblance passed
That thought that bade a race be free?
From "Penguin New Firm" collected by Edmund Clarence Steadman (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1897)

Every Republican voter in Rockland would make no other engagement for Monday night than to attend the respective ward caucuses. Ralph Bird has entered the office of the Camden Anchor-Rockland Machine Co. as draughtsman. Mr. Bird took a special course at the University of Maine upon this position, excellently qualified. Gov. Cobb was the principal speaker at the seventh annual banquet of the Kenneboc County Bowdoin Alumni Association in Augusta Tuesday night. He made a ringing speech which was several times interrupted by applause.

His main theme was the spirit of Bowdoin of Bowdoin men, and he expressed his pride in the fact that Bowdoin depends upon this for support rather than in other appeals for aid.

Reuben S. Thorndike leaves soon for Portland, where he will be associated in business with his brother. This has necessitated his resignation as master of Pleasant Valley Grange, a position which he has filled with so much ability as to cause regret on the part of the grange. It was largely through his efforts that the grange fair became such a successful institution. What will Pleasant Valley Grange do without its "only ruler"?

Edward Taylor of Spruce Head, who died quite suddenly in East Union Thursday, was one of the oldest members of Knox Lodge of Odd Fellows, having joined in 1875, the year that the lodge was first organized. The lodge will probably be represented at the funeral, which takes place Saturday at 1 p. m. from the residence of Mrs. James Donham in East Union. Mrs. Donham is a relative of the deceased, and the latter was visiting at the home of the widow of the late John H. Heed.

The wreck of the lobster schooner Star of the West, which now lies submerged in Matineux harbor, will be blown up today when Capt. W. G. Butman arrives there. The revenue cutter Woodbury attended the wrecking of the schooner at its resting place, but was unable to salvage it. Dynamite will now be brought to the rescue. The wreck is regarded as a menace to navigation and its removal will be a source of relief to the owner as well as to those who have vessel property within the danger zone.

Capt. Charles E. Hall is back at the home port after an extended cruise in the revenue cutter Woodbury. The records of wood, free wharfage and no compulsory pilotage. The captain has now hauled out at Butler's marine office, where he will probably be submitting a plan to the harbor committee for the construction of the numerous wharves who contracts there. We have sufficient confidence in Capt. Hall to believe that he will weather the storm. Speaking of the destruction of the schooner, Capt. Charles says that he "never shipped a sea or parted a rope yarn."

The gift ball of the James F. Sears House Co. drew a very large crowd to Wolloughby hall Wednesday night, and is classed among the most successful entertainments the company has ever provided. The ball was liberally advertised in The Courier-Gazette and the members of the company attribute the large patronage to the liberal advertising. The street parade took place the advertised hour, and consisted of all the Rockland companies together with the Atlantic Engine Company of Camden.

Town clerk A. J. Ames of North Haven was a caller at The Courier-Gazette office this morning. He came to Rockland Thursday as a bearer of the North Haven votes, which figure prominently in the Peace-Payson case, and had a little difficulty in getting here. He started Monday night, but was obliged to abandon the trip on account of the storm. Under the present conditions it means a journey of 15 miles from his home in North Haven. He was 10 minutes too late to connect with the steamer on her return trip Thursday afternoon, and remained in the city over night. Mr. Ames is always a welcome visitor here.

Unless the Fur Scarf taken from the Toilet Room of W. O. Hewitt Co's Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 8, is returned by the 20th inst., an officer will be sent for it, and also for the person who purloined it.

The public should not miss the remaining performance of the Corinne-Runkel Stock Co. The play this Friday evening will be one of the best of the week, and additional interest attached to it for the reason that two gold watches are to be given away.

The specialties which Mr. Runkel brings along are worth the price of the orchestra chairs. If you don't believe it, go call on the troupe. (With apologies to Jones.)

Arthur A. Blackington of this city who has been working at Hurricane recently saved off the end of his left thumb with a splitting saw. J. M. THE PEASE-PAYSON CASE.

Re-count Up To Date Shows Republican Candidate Elected by Sixteen Votes—Points At Issue.

The hearing in the Knox county contested election case did not conclude Tuesday, owing to the non-arrival of the North Haven town clerk and the fact that Judge Spear was obliged to depart on the afternoon train. He returns on the 4.55 p. m. train this Friday, and there will be a resumption of the hearing tonight.

The office at stake, as most of our readers know by this time, is register of probate, paying now in fees from $1000 to $1500 per year, but slated for a salary of $800 per year if the fee system is abolished.

The present incumbent is Clarence D. Payson, Democrat, of Thomaston, who has served four years in that capacity, and who received a certificate for a second term on the face of the September election returns as compiled at the office of the secretary of state. What led to the contest was the discovery by one of the Rockland aldermen (who was also a candidate on the county ticket) that the vote of his own ward (Ward 6) was manifestly not in accord with the number of ballots cast. Mayor Rhoades ordered a second meeting of the municipal officers and a re-count of the Ward 6 vote showed a change of some 22 votes in favor of Harrison C. Pease of Appleton, the Republican candidate. Mr. Pease was apprised of the discovery, and in company with Judge Robinson, who then contemplated contesting the seat of Senator Staples, made an informal examination of the ballots in some other towns. The result so well convinced him of his election that he brought a bill in equity and last Monday the hearing began before Judge Spear of Auburn.

Notes brought into court for re-counting were only those which, in dispute. With the original ballots in his possession Judge Spear passed judgment upon them for one side or the other occasionally reserving a ballot for future decision. The attorneys followed the progress of this examination by means of sample ballots, occasionally taking exception to the decision of the court. Exclusive of the North Haven, which was understood to make a change of 13 in favor of Mr. Pease, he made a net gain of 21 in the re-count with the possibility of having added to those figures the five votes on which the decision was reserved. The suit thus far, and exclusive of North Haven, gives Mr. Pease the election by six plurality.

The points most at issue in the hearing are the Ward 6 matter, the St. George-Rockport mixup, Mr. Pease's name, and the method by which he was nominated.

Alfred Orne was the principal witness in the Ward 6 matter, telling how he came to note the error in the original count, and how it was rectified. In his first appearance on the witness stand he testified that two Republican electors, Charles H. Pease and George W. Hix, the newspapers, it was said, had been present at the democratic election clerk were present at the recount before the municipal officers. When he went on the stand Tuesday forenoon he corrected the statement, showing the reverse to have been the case. He had been able to refresh his memory by means of memoranda he had used in preparing a statement for the newspapers. It was George W. Hix, he testified, and not Mr. B. Hix, the newspaper, who had been present at the recount, and Mr. Hix was produced as a witness and said that he had not been satisfied with the idea of the recount. Asked somewhat sharply by the court if he had made any objection he replied in the negative.

City Clerk Davies testified that there had been several examinations of the Ward 6 votes. Candidate Pease had viewed them in company with Alton B. Small (Democrat) and Candidate Payson had viewed them with Oliver Ous (Democrat). Subsequently both candidates had inspected them. A count of the uncorrected ballots showed that they made a correct tally with the vote as shown in the recount.

Among the witnesses in the St. George-Rockport matter were William E. Sherer, postmaster at Tenant's Harbor, and Clarence E. Paul of the Democratic county committee. Mr. Sherer showed that the Republicans had made unusual errors in the counting of the ballots. He had been able to refresh his memory by means of memoranda he had used in preparing a statement for the newspapers. It was George W. Hix, he testified, and not Mr. B. A GRAET MEDICINE

BRINGS HEALTH TO THREE MEMBERS OF SAME FAMILY.

Cures Wife's Debility After Malaria, a Husband's Rheumatism, a Daughter's Nervous Prostration.

The claim of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to be a genuine household remedy is based on the fact that they make the blood sound and the nerves strong and so overcome a variety of diseases. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many people, and I would try them, and then I bought my first box.

"I was just about ten years ago that I first read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, in a newspaper article which gave the testimony of some woman who had been cured by them. Her symptoms were so much like mine that I thought I would try them, and then I bought my first box.

"I was at that time all run down in health. I was weak and nervous and without ambition. I couldn't walk any distance on account of shortness of breath and palpitation of my heart, and I had no appetite. I had been doctoring all summer for malaria and stomach trouble. Everbody thought I was going into consumption, as my mother had died of that disease.

"Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I am now hale and hearty. I began to improve as soon as I began to take the first box. I got three more boxes, and when those had been taken I was a well woman. I always take a few as a tonic every spring and fall, and I have found them of great benefit just before and after confinement. Ever-o-e wonders how I keep so well and am able to care for my mother and six children without help. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills explain it."

"My oldest girl's health began to fall when she was about fourteen, as the result of too close application to her school work. She was nervous, complained of sharp pains in her head, would get drowsy and have to leave the schoolroom to get fresh air to revive her. I gave some pills to her. She took only a few boxes, but they cured her troubles and caused her to develop into a perfect picture of health. Miss Louise Kullow returns Saturday from a week's visit in New York. Mrs. Maynard S. Williams, who is spending the winter in Florida, has lately made a delightful side trip to Havana. Mrs. Williams sends us copies of La Lucha and the Havana Post, two of Cuba's leading dailies. The Post is printed in English and the modest claim is made that it reaches nearly every English speaking person on the island. La Lucha is printed mainly in Spanish but devotes a page or so to English. Havana is evidently in the height of its season.

Mrs. Warren Williams, Mrs. J. J. Veazie, Mrs. S. G. Prescott and Mrs. B. J. Clifton were the housekeepers of a very successful dinner supper at the Universalist church Wednesday evening. Next Wednesday the kitchen will be entrusted to the care of the men folks, and the aprons will be worn by Rev. E. H. Chandler, Mr. Walter, M. A. Johnson and H. O. Gurdy. The annual children's circle at the Congregational church, Wednesday evening, was an event which not only inspired the little folks with delight, but which was quite as interesting and enjoyable to the older folks present. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. J. Bird, Miss Harriet Bird and Mrs. D. J. Stryker, who are to be congratulated upon the complete success. The vestry was ornamented with valentine decorations, and valentines were a feature of the supper tables. In the evening there was an entertainment by the children, which included numbers by Dorothy Snow, Marion McLean, Mrs. Sponser, Lucille Perry, Ruth Reed, Margaret Mayo, Nettie Bird and Emily Webb. And it was a very creditable and pleasing program, too.

The Wide Awake Club spent a very pleasant afternoon with its newest member, Mrs. J. R. Flye, Crescent street, Tuesday. Valentine decorations predominated, and there were cute favors appropriate to that holiday.

Mrs. Mary Adams, wife of Mr. H. B. Fales left Wednesday morning for a month's visit in Washington, D. C.

WHEELER-HAYNES.

Rockland Physician Marries a Prominent Augusta Young Lady.

The marriage of Miss Hope Manchester Haynes, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. J. Manchester Haynes, to Ernest Henry Wheeler, M. D., of Rockland, occurred Wednesday noon, at the home of the bride's parents, on Western avenue, Augusta. Rev. J. S. Williamson of Haverhill, Mass., formerly pastor of the Congregational church in Augusta, performing the ceremony. The bride gown was of white chiffon, trimmed with Brussels lace, the gift of the bride's mother. Miss Muriel Sturgis Haynes was bridesmaid, and Col. R. H. Crockett of Rockland, acted as groomsmen. The Gounod Ladies' Quartet sang the Lohengrin wedding march, and at the close of the ceremony the hymn, "Oh Perfect Love."

The groom is a graduate of the Dartmouth Medical College and took a post-graduate of the Polytechnic hospital in Philadelphia. While a resident of Rockland he served as city physician and member of the board of health. During the Spanish War he was with the First Maine Regiment at Chickamauga as hospital steward. He saw two years' service in the Philippines as assistant surgeon with the rank of captain, and is now executive officer of the Canal hospital at Ancon, Panama. He is a young man of splendid ability, and in securing his new commission as husband he has the heartfelt congratulations of a very large circle of friends.

THE SEGOCHET'S FIRST.

Banquet At Knox Hotel Was a Felicitous Affair, Deserving of Others.

The members of the Segochet Club of Thomaston held their first banquet Thursday evening at the Knox hotel. It was intended to inaugurate an annual custom, but the club was so well pleased with the occasion that the banquet is destined to be held with much greater frequency than once a year.

In the absence of President O'Brien, the club's able vice president, Hon. J. E. Moore, took the responsibility of acting as toastmaster. The speech-making was an afterthought, and necessarily informal, but the members of the club proved their readiness to answer any test, and some fine sentiments were expressed. The introduction of the speakers was performed in the happy and witty vein for which Mr. Moore is justly famous. The first speaker was Erasmus L. Linnell, the oldest representative present and one of the club's first members. He was followed by Capt. Ed. S. Smalley, also of the "old guard." Remarks were made by A. C. Strout, John C. Levensaler, W. E. Vinal, Dr. Jameson, W. L. Catland, Frank Beverage, Albert Hyler, Charles S. Smith, Stephen Bishop, S. E. Smith, Pearl Peaslee and James E. Roakes. Others were called upon, but modestly declined.

Mr. Peaslee was introduced as the exponent of the stage. Mr. Roakes was presented as the most important officer of the club. He had been janitor almost from the Segochet's inception and was not for him the club would not exist. This was said in sober earnest, the toastmaster declared. Mr. Roakes was beloved by every member as was shown by the enthusiastic applause of $45 which he had presented him.

There was much praise for Landlord Haley's fine hospitality. The excellent menu was as follows:

Chicken a la Creole. Queen Olives.
Baked White Fish—Marre de Hotel.
Young Turkey Stuffed—Cranberry Sauce.
Baked Potatoes—Butter—Jardine.
Punch at Kirsch.
Small Patties of Chicken.
Shrimp Salad—on Mayonnaise.
Strawberry Short Cake—Whipped Cream.
Assorted Cake Lady Fingers Vanilla Ice Cream.
Fruit Jelly.
Oranges.
Malted Grapes.
Laver Raisins.

UNION DEFENDERS DAY.

Sons of Veterans Entertain Guests in Very Happy Style—Speeches, Spread and Dancing Formed the Program.

The Sons of Veterans held a very pleasant social entertainment in Grand Army hall Tuesday evening in honor of Union Defenders' Day, or Lincoln's Birthday. About 100 guests were present. Edwin Mullen, commander of Anderson Camp, presided at the meeting, and left nothing undone that would contribute to the pleasure of the gathering.

The speakers of the evening were Judge L. R. Campbell, Arthur L. O'Neil, Edward K. Gould, William P. Cook and Mrs. H. E. Candace. Judge Campbell invited a comparison of Napoleon Bonaparte and Abraham Lincoln, whom he denominated as the two greatest men of the 19th century. Napoleon failed because he lacked moral purpose. Lincoln succeeded because he was animated by the strictest integrity and had in his heart a moral purpose. From this comparison was evolved the advice for young men to nurture and cherish moral sense. Without it they might possess the world and still be a failure; with it they might not achieve material success yet they would have a clean conscience and pure heart. Arthur L. O'Neil, spoke as a representative of the Past Commanders' Association, which was doing all in its power to assist the rank and file of the organization. He referred in very complimentary terms to the men who had been through the chairs in Anderson Camp and paid a deserved tribute to Past Commander J. Pearl Billings, than whom nobody had contributed more time or better service. Col. O'Neil referred to his words the action of presenting a Sons of Veterans' charm to Mr. Billings. This event was not down on the regular program and proved a pleasant surprise to the members. Mr. Billings responded as gracefully as he could under the circumstances, and with his best gift present.

Past Colonel Edward K. Gould spoke a warm welcome to the members of the Grand Army and Relief Corps who were present. He said Lincoln's memory was admired by the people of the South, not because he was southern born, but because he had the largest heart of any man mentioned in history. Commander Cook of Edwin Libby Post spoke of the extreme generosity and tenderness of Lincoln, who, in the dark days of the Civil War, found time to visit the hospitals, carry cheer to the humble soldier as well as to the officer. Mrs. H. E. Candace spoke briefly for the Relief Corps.

The speeches were interspersed with readings and musical numbers as follows: Piano duet, Mrs. Carrie Burpee Shaw; and Miss Allie Shaw; vocal solo, Miss Laura Lawrence; vocal solo, Miss Alice Hayhurst; reading, "The New Brother," Miss Eva Tyler; piano duet, Miss Mabel Lamb and Miss Vivian Billings; piano solo, Miss Emma Lawrence; reading, "The Old Violin," Miss Georgia McLaughlin; mandolin solo, Arthur Lamb.

Past Colonel Henry C. Chatto read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, prefaced with appropriate remarks. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served, and the floor was cleared for dancing. Ralph Higgins of, dated very ably as announcer. The music was furnished by an orchestra comprising Miss Emma Lawrence, Cecil Copping and Hiram Burns. The celebration committee consisted of Past Commander J. Pearl Billings, Senior Vice Commander Charles W. Burpee and Arthur H. Simmons.

Rev. Robert Sutcliffe will preach, at the Engine House, Highlands, at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

President Roosevelt's speech at the New York Press Club dinner contained one paragraph which presents an ideal for all municipal governments though applied by the President to national affairs. It is this: "When it comes to a question of honesty there is no party line. We can afford to differ widely among ourselves on questions of the currency, of the tariff, and many other subjects; we cannot afford to differ on the elemental question of getting honest and decent service for the public from no matter which party, from no matter what man happens to be in power."

The Corinne-Runkel Stock Co. Closes a Successful Week's Engagement This Saturday Night.

The Catholics of Rumford Falls are raising funds to build a church. The Corinne-Runkel Co., now giving daily performances at Farwell opera house, is in Rumford Falls three weeks ago and on Sunday gave a concert for the church fund. The hall was packed and the sum realized was large. The result brought the following letter to Mr. Runkel, Wednesday of this week:

Rumford Falls, Feb. 14, '05.
The Corinne-Runkel Stock Co.:
I take this opportunity of extending the thanks of the Catholics of Rumford Falls to you, all for your kindness in voluntarily offering your services for the benefit of the new church. From all sides praises have come forth for the choice entertainment you gave us and the large sum received. This shows us that you are a people animated with the spirit of doing good. Words are inadequate to express my feelings towards you, all for this act of kindness. It is not to be praised by the world that we do good to our neighbor, and that is the motive of your act towards us here. We have a higher motive in view, something for the glory of God, which was precisely your end in view. May success crown your work wherever you may be. The Catholics of Rumford Falls in Rumford Falls a grateful people who will not soon forget you. Thanking you then in behalf of all the Catholics for your extreme kindness I remain
Yours sincerely,
REV. T. C. MANEY.

PRESCILLE

Read what the Daily Messenger has to say of Prescille's engagement in Concord:

"This is Prescille Week" in Concord. His entertainment has been greatly strengthened and developed since last season by the addition of illustrated songs and other features. Last evening he introduced as the principal attraction his circus program, in which he forms his troupe of subjects into ring artists by hypnotic influence.

It is a great show and demonstrates the wonderful powers of Mr. Prescille, perhaps more plainly than any other act he presents. Prescille appears in a natty Hough Rider's costume as ring master and each subject is in costume suitable for his act.

At Farwell opera house last three days of next week, Feb. 23-25, with matinee on Saturday.

CORINNE-RUNKEL STOCK CO.

The last two performances of the Corinne-Runkel Stock Company at Farwell opera house present "The Broomstick Sisters" for six matinees, and "Daughter of Denmark" for the closing performance. All the big specialties will be introduced, which are among the best seen here with a popular priced company. The moving pictures and illustrated songs are extra good, and are conducted by Foster, the always up-to-date picture man. The Corinne-Runkel Stock Co. is good to start to finish. Honey Johnson, who always makes good the real colored singer is worth listening to. Matinee

Centrals Win Another Up-Hill Game Against the Majors—Gardiner To-Night.

The exhibition polo game played by the Centrals and Majors Tuesday night proved to be one of the best games of the season. Although there was nothing at stake both teams went into the game with as much snap and vigor as though the championship depended upon the result.

At the end of the first period the score was 4 to 1 in favor of the Majors, and among the spectators the opinion prevailed very generally that the new champions were out classed. At the end of the second period the score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Majors, but there was a feeling in the atmosphere that the Centrals were going to furnish a surprise before the game was over. This they did by making three straight goals in the third period.

While the game went to the Centrals there was in reality very little difference between the teams. The Majors had hard luck as was shown in the second period, when Whitney, in a hasty attempt to get the ball out of the danger zone, knocked it into his own goal. Ralph Bird was back in the goal for the Centrals, and while a bit rusty in the first period did some splendid work. John Skinner played one of his best games of the season. Warren brought over a lively contingent headed by Will Robinson and did some lusty rooting for the Majors. Warren promises to be in evidence again at the Auburn game next Tuesday night.

This Week

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A review from the columns of the Rockland Gazette, of some of the events which interested Rockland and vicinity for the two weeks ending Feb. 19, 1880.

Sleighting had entirely disappeared. The Practical Photograph was illustrated with a picture entitled "Expectation" made from a photograph by Well G. Smith of Binghamton, N. Y.

Samuel Bryant was appointed valuation commissioner for Knox county. The name of the postoffice at South St. George was changed to Port Clyde.

The old members of Gen. Berry Engine Co. had a reunion in Pillsbury hall. Capt. Thomas Dermot of the bark Will W. Case had been home for a few days, after an absence of nearly two years.

The Gazette said: "Col. Black's billboards are being ornamented for the Lawrence Barrett Company with stands of bills competing 30 sheets in each stand. They are very handsome, and so is the colonel."

Mark P. Smith was elected foreman of the hook and ladder company in place of E. J. Clifton, resigned. He declined, having been in the service nearly 30 years.

The Owl's Head Silver Mining Co. elected the following officers: True P. Pierce, president; L. F. Sturges, secretary and treasurer; T. P. Pierce, W. R. Close, Eben Blunt, G. M. Hicks, A. R. Hopkins, J. P. Ingraham and C. W. S. Cobb, directors.

The New Gen. Berry Engine Co. gave its first annual ball in Farwell hall. A concert by the Park Quartet was a feature.

Schooner Red Jacket, Capt. Ginn, (Thomaston) for New York, was in collision with steamer Solus near Newport. The schooner was very badly damaged. Her jibboom penetrated the pilot house of the steamer, while her bowsprit, bolsters, bowsprit shrouds and water crashed into the starboard bow at right angles, the steamer being under full headway, breaking the guard and penetrating about five feet into the deck planks. The vessel was in contact more than two hours, until drawn apart by the revenue cutter Samuel Dexter.

The annual meeting of Knox District Lodge was held with Fraternity Lodge in this city. The officers elected were S. E. Cushing, Thomson; Charles Dunning, Rockland; Mrs. W. S. Irish, Camden; Rev. W. H. Littlefield, Vinalhaven; Julia C. Arvey, Owl's Head; and Aaron Howe, Rockland. E. D. Merrill of Rockport was recommended as district deputy.

At a citizens' meeting a resolution was adopted instructing the city council committee to oppose a division of the city, the separation of Ward 7 as a district town then being in prospect. The 10th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Prince was celebrated in the Counce Engine hall at Thomaston.

Schooner Annie Bliss, built by Samuel Vail & Co. at Thomaston, was sold to Savannah parties for $8000. A. S. Pales was conducting a successful singing school in Cushing.

An assay office was opened in the John Curtis building at Camden over Rose Bros' drug store. Fred R. Page was superintendent. A. A. Gushue of Appleton bought the celebrated trotting horse Peter Melvor. The officers of Merry Lodge of Good Templars of Warren were E. A. Mero, Miss Mary Peterson, Rev. J. E. Pond, Miss Sadie E. Hill, Miss Emma Ripley, Miss Clara V. Hosmer, C. S. Smith, Ernest Stahl, Miss Ada Pearce, Miss Annie R. Jones, W. H. Perkins, Miss Sadie Viles, Miss Frank R. Watts.

The following births were recorded: Rockland, Feb. 15, Mr. and Mrs. David Kennedy, a son. Cushing, Feb. 7, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Post, a daughter. Thomaston, Feb. 10, Capt. and Mrs. Gleason Young, a son.

The marriages of the two weeks were as follows: Rockville, Feb. 14, Linan B. Brewster and Miss Lucie J. Pickard, both of Camden. Camden, Feb. 10, Hallet D. Blume of Camden and Eva S. Knowles of Troy. Warren, Feb. 11, Sherburn A. Spear and Miss Etta S. Kallioch of Warren. Rockland, Feb. 7, Fred C. Simmons and Cora L. Jackson, both of Rockland. Rockland, Feb. 7, George W. Stahl of Rockland and Lizzie V. Conant of Appleton.

ELIWOOD

Mrs. Jennie Clark of South Thomaston, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Edna Burr, here, R. 1, was called to her home Feb. 7, after a successful term of eight weeks, taught by Miss Pearl McLaughlin of West Appleton.

Miss Rosella Mitchell called on Mrs. Viola Hall recently.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney is poisoned blood will attack the vital organs of the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

APPLETON ASSOCIATION.

Second Annual Reunion Held at the American House, Boston.

The Second Annual Reunion of former residents of Appleton, now to visit in Boston and vicinity was held at the American House, Boston, on Friday evening, Feb. 10. An informal reception was held in the parlors of the hotel from 6 to 7:30 o'clock, after which a banquet was served. Following the banquet, at which President William W. Sprague officiated as toast-master, a business meeting was held, music was provided by members of the Association, and speeches completed the program of the evening.

The secretary, J. Ashbury Pitman, reported that he had secured the addresses and had mailed notices of the union to 193 former residents of the town who might reasonably be expected to attend. In this work he had received valuable assistance from Walter E. Newcomb of Boston, Harry C. Pease of Appleton, Emma Weymouth Jones of Westboro, Alphonso Mitchell and the postmaster, both of Burketville, and the Rockland Courier-Gazette.

After reading the records of the previous meeting of the Association, the Secretary read letters of regret from Chester Collamore, West Derry, N. H.; Mrs. Ethel Ripley Simmons, Vinalhaven; Cora Butler Pease, Malden; Frank Barker, Salem; Clara Maddocks, Socasset, R. I.; and an original poem by Bernard A. Pitman, which is as follows:

To The Sons and Daughters of Appleton, Maine.

Ye wanderers from the dear old town
Whom I have longed to see again,
We greet you as in by-gone days,
When hope and joy were blent.

There naught of sorrow or of pain
Heedless free, old and gray,
We greet you as in by-gone days,
When hope and joy were blent.

Ye wanderers from that town recall
The good old Summer-time,
The Winter's drifted snow!
The Mayflowers of the early Spring,
The violets and anemones
Still bloom upon the hill.

The elm tree shades the dear old spring
Who water clear and cool
Was near to our thirsty lips
When first let out from school.

The red and yellow autumn leaves,
The beech tree, old and gray,
Where you and I once cut our names
One bright October day.

The skating parties on the pond,
The sleigh he is merry chime,
Ring out the old, ring in the new,
And thus the years pass on.

Six passed the years of childhood bright,
And time's still ceaseless flow
Has brought some sadness to our lives,
Unknown in long ago.

Each lacks some burdens hard must bear,
An aches is sometimes gray,
But strength is given for the load,
And soon we pass away.

So, old-time friends remember still,
That life holds much of joy;
No happiness without some pain,
No old without alloy.

So here is strength to do and dare,
Whatever grief appears,
God grant that we meet many times
Within the coming years.

—Bernard A. Pitman.
